

28th April 2020

Dear Parents/Carers,

Mid-week reminders:

Just a few answers to questions raised this week and some extra information; we hope you find them useful.

- Firstly, we are very aware of the fact that as shut-down continues, there will be shifts in the way families are working at home. We fully appreciate that we are all trying our best and that each household needs to approach the work from school and tasks set in their own way. The work is there as a guide and support.
- In the parent's forum notes attached to the newsletter on Friday, the Online Teaching and Learning Policy link was not correct, apologies for this. The correct link is below.

- Government has released a link to on-line courses available anyone who wants to up-skill. Link below:

- Mrs Whiffin has found a link to a free on-line book, which is a compilation of poems, stories and pictures from well-known authors:

- Finally, we will be delivering food hampers to any families that need support at this time and we are still very much collecting donations. Please use the homelearning email with the subject: Food Donation, as a way of communicating to us. All applications for food for next week, need to be in by this Friday, 5 pm.

Kind regards

Tracey Hart, Headteacher
